4. Complete the table below.

Department	Job
Pharmacy	Pharmacist
Gynaecology
Neurology
Cardiology
Psychology
*Paediatrics
Anaesthesiology
*Maternity
*Surgical
Virology
Radiology

- What do the departments/jobs above specialise in?
- Which letter is silent in the word psychology?

Note the endings of these departments do no end in -y. The job names are also different from the rest.*

Present Simple vs. Present Continuous

We use Present Simple:

- To talk about facts, permanent situations, and routines.

For example: Peter is a paediatrician. (permanent situation)

They wake up at 5:00 am every morning.

We use Present Continuous:

- To talk about actions happening at the moment of speaking and temporary situations.

For example: I am preparing the instruments for surgery. (now)

This week I am working night shifts. (temporary)

Note: Usually, we do not use the present continuous with stative verbs like be, have etc.

5. Read the following email/job description and select the verb in the correct form.

My names Shiva and I (be) a cardiac surgeon, that means I (perform) surgery on the heart and the major vessels around it. I (work) in London for six months because of friend of mine (be) on maternity leave. I usually (live) and (work) in Manchester.

One of the difficult things about being a doctor (be) working in shifts. Sometimes I (work) during the day and sometimes at night. This week I (work) night shifts. I prefer night shifts because the hospital (be) usually quieter at night.

- What are your daily routines?
- Do you work in shifts?
- Are you working on anything in particular/temporary this week/month or year?
- What advice would you give to someone starting out a career in what you do?

Transcript

Radio host: Hi Daniela, nice to meet you and thanks for doing this interview with us on Radio 200.

Daniela: The pleasure is all mine Kirsty.

Radio host: So as you know this program is called Jobs that help others. What exactly do you do Daniela?

Daniela: I'm a paramedic.

Radio host: Ah, fantastic! What does a day at work look like for you?

Daniela: Well, a shift is usually 12 hours long. I typically start at 5am. The day starts with checking all of the medical supplies, equipment and medication. After that we make sure the ambulance is in working order. Once we've completed the maintenance check, we go to our stand by point. This is when the real day begins! On a typical day we will respond to around 15 emergency calls. These kind of emergency calls could be anything – an allergic reaction, a car accident or a broken bone.

Radio host: Interesting! So, every day must be very different!

Daniela: Oh absolutely.

Radio host: How long is the response time?

Daniela: Well... the response time varies. We do our best to get there as quickly as possible and 90% of the ambulances arrive at the scene within 10 minutes.

Radio host: 10 minutes! That's amazing! Very fast. And what would you say is the hardest part of your job?

Daniela: Mm... As you can imagine it's very a high-pressure environment and you have to stay cool under pressure and make very quick decisions. In fact, making quick decisions could potentially save a life. Also, sometimes you have to deal with difficult family members which makes everything a lot harder. But the hardest part is when we don't manage to save someone. Sometimes people don't realise how hard this can be. Sometimes we lose someone and have to move onto another emergency. It can be a lot emotionally.

Radio host: I can imagine that would be hard but what do you love most about your job?

Daniela: Well... It's the fact that I save people's lives. Helping people is one of the greatest accomplishments of my life. It helps me through the hard times and to stay motivated to do what I do.

Radio host: I just have one last questions for our listeners who might be interested in becoming a paramedic. What qualifications do you need?

Daniela: Well...You need a paramedic's degree. So, it's a lot of studying but it's totally worth it in the end!

Radio host: I'm sure it is! Thanks again for your time Daniela.

Daniela: Thanks Richard.
